No Currency to Be Idle Under New Bill.

SENATOR ALLISON SO DECLARED.

Defended the Financial Bill in the Senate-Jones (Nev.) Called It Climax of Efforts to Abolish the Use of Silver-Further Attacked the Measure.

Washington, Feb. 14.-Mr. Allison (Iowa), the ranking Republican member of the financial committee, addressed the senate on the financial measure. He said in part that the pending measure was proposed to deal with the currency question in a large and general way. Mr. Allison referred to the senate substitute for the house bill and said there was no proposition to change the existing currency—gold and silver certificates, greenbacks, treasury notes and national bank notes.

Mr. Allison said that from 1792 to 1873 this country had a double standard of value. He said that since the enactment of the law of 1873 there had not passed current a single dollar of any kind of United States money that was not on absolute parity with the gold dollar. The passage of this bill would practitimes will answer inquiries about low cally re-enact the provisions of the law

Said be in part: "The present bill makes the greenbacks absolutely redeemable in gold coin. In no sense does the bill provide for the climination of greenbacks from our currency. I want to reiterate that there is not a provision in the first section of the senate substitute that is not now a part of the law or that has not been the practice of the government since

Mr. Lindsay (Ky.) inquired whether, in case there should be a deficit, the gold obtained from the sale of bonds under the bill could be used to pay current expenses of the govern-

Mr. Allison-Under the provisions of the sen ate substitute, to which I am directing my remarks, these bonds for obtaining gold can be sold only when the reserve falls below $50,000, 000; and I want here and now to express my firm conviction and belief that it will never be necessary under the bill to sell bonds for that

Mr. Lindsay-But will not the ultimate re sult be the retirement of the greenback? Mr. Allison-Under this bill the greenback cannot be retired. I want to say that the re tirement of the greenbasks, or any other part of our money, should never be attempted with out the most careful scrutiny and the wisest consideration of the legislation providing for

In response to another question by Mr. Lindsay. Mr. Allison said that the greenbacks under the provisions of the pending bill, prac tically would be a gold certificate, and he added: "It is so now. Mr. Allison said that the bill did not provide for the exchange of silver notes for gold be cause the committee did not deem it necessary The faith of the government had been pledged to maintain them at a parity, and that pledge had not broken. We would never disgrace and degrade ourselves by allowing them to go to

"Suppose next summer a Demogratic m dent were elected. I know that you think that impossible, but miracles have happened; suppose a Democratic president should take it into his head to discriminate against g id. How could silver dollars be maintained at parity if they are not redeemable in gold?"

"You must catch your hare before you can eat him," replied Mr. Allison, amid laughter, "This scheme of finance then rests upon the continued supremacy of the party in power? "Not at all," replied Mr. Allison, "I am speaking of silver certificates, not of the probalality of the election of a Democratic presi-

Mr. Allen (Neb.) interposed to say that his objection to the bill was that the whole power to issue money would be turned over to the na tional banks. Mr. Allison replied that under the bill every dollar of our currency must and would remain in circulation. The tail could not was the dog.

Mr. Allison, turning to the refunding feature of the bill, said it was a propitious time to redeem the bonds due in 1904-07 and '08. The funding should proceed gradually in order that there might be no friction in the money market. We could save $22,000,000 per annua by funding the bonds now. We could not be charged with favoring national banks when we compelled them to deposit 2 per cent bonds instead of 3 pr 1 per cent.

Mr. Jones (Nev.), in a speech, said in part: "This measure is the climax of efforts that have been made since 1869 to abolish the use of silver. It is certain that there will be additional legislation presented at some subse quent date to retire the $346,000,000 of greenacks. The gold standard advocates know that it would not do to attempt to carry through all of their plans at once. That would be a shock to the American people. There will be also an effort in the near future to retire the treasury notes.

"This will afford the national banks an opportunity to regulate the volume of all money, save only gold and silver coin. Thus an aggre gation of private banking corporations will excreise the sovereign function of issuing money, instead of that function being vested in the government alone."

Mr. Jones declared that the measure provided learly for a permanent increase in the bonded debt of the country, and that it is a monstrous proposition that any executive officer of the government should have the power to bond the American people.

Speaking of the provision of the bill whiel will enable national banks to issue currency up to the par value of bonds deposited, Mr. Jones declared that the result of the authorization of national banks to issue so great an amount of currency as they would be able to issue by the provisions of the pending bill would be to place in the hands of the banks the credit of the entire people and the power, in times of financial pressure and financial stringency, absolutely to bankrupt thousands of people by calling in loans in the regular conduct of their banking business.

"This bill places in the hands of the national banks the control of the bonded debt of the country," said Mr. Jones. "Whenever the oanks see fit they can reduce the gold reserve below the limit and force an issuance of bonds, and this process can go on indefinitely."

Mr. Jones spoke with bitter sarcusm of the financial dependance of the United States, declaring that a cock fight in India, or a war in Africa with the Boers, disturbed the finance of 80,000,000 Americans

He maintained that this country should have its own distinctive money which would not desert us in time of trial, and in conclusion advocated the issue of a paper currency by the government alone. This currency should be entirely independent of gold, silver or any thing else that possessed inherent value. Such money, he argued, regulated in amount in accordance with the population of the country would be the best and stendiest money ever seen in the world.

The death of representative C. A. Chickering was announced, and the following senators were appointed as a funeral committee: Platt, Mason, Scott, Turner and Sullivan.

MILLER GOT A MILLION.

Opinion of His Press Agent, Who Comfessed Regarding the Syndicate's

New York, Feb. 14.—A local paper claimed to have a confession from Cecil Leslie, "press agent" and employe of the Miller 520 per cent swindle, which THE CURRENCY BILL CONDEMNED.

The Franklin syndicate was a colossal bunco game. Some of the men interested in the concern were formerly managers of Lyons & Company and the E. S. Dean company, in this city, which were run on similar lines. Miller must have gathered at least $1,000,000 out of the scheme, probably more. He had behind him more political backing than any schemer, swindler or gambler this country ever knew.

Politicians of highest rank, senators, among members of the church in which Miller taught a Sunday school class. The wives of high police officials and a great number of policemen and firemen were among his investors. FRICK BRINGS SUIT AGAINST CARNEGIE,

He Alleges Malice and Attempted Fraud Against the Steel King. Millions Involved.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 14.—The bitter strug gle between Andrew Carnegic and Henry C. Frick over the stockholdings of the latter in the Carnegie Steel company, limited, culminated in the filing of a bill in equity by the latter in common pleas court No. 1 against the Carnegie company.

Mr. Frick makes serious charges against Mr. Carnegie personally, and, after mentioning several alternatives for Mr. Carnegie to take, asks that in the event of refusal a receiver be appointed to sell the great property and distribute the balance among the partners.

Frick alleges that in 1900, right at a prosperous time in the business, Carnegie asked him to resign, without any reason, except personal malice. This he did in the interest of harmony. He then demanded that Frick sell his stock at half its value. This was Jan. 11.

"Frick refused to sell at that price. but offered to sell and allow three men to value the interest sold. Carnegie re fused this, and left Frick, threatening him for not yielding to his demands. *

"Frick now alleges that after his resgnation, and at the time of this last interview. Carnegic was fraudulently and secretly, without Frick's knowledge or consent, aftempting to carry out , scheme, which would enable Carnegie to confiscate Frick's interest in the firm at probably not much over 33 per cent of its real value; that is, say, not over $6,-000,000 for what, on the basis of Carnegie's option, was worth $16,238,000. This scheme. Frick says he can prove, was to revive and reinstate and make operative an unexecuted and abandoned so-called ironelad agreement of 1887, which related solely to Carnegie Bros. & Co., Limited. and never did include the Carnegie Steel company, limited; and also to attempt to make binding on Frick another so-called ironelad agreement of 1892, which Carnegie never before had executed, which Henry Phips had always refused to execute, and which many other partners had never signed."

Proposed By Anti-Trust Conierence Committee.

Convention Did It By a Rising Vote-One Delegate Became Angry and Retired. Government Ownership Thome of Resolutious to Be Offered.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—After a heated debate the resolutions committee of the anti-trust conference decided to report in favor of government ownership of assemblymen and leaders of both parties railroads and for their seizure on paywere his clients. The syndicate's stock | ment of actual value and without paymarket connections were fairy tales. It! ment for watered stock or other fictiwas organized with its first clients from tious values. There was a sharp discussion in the committee and several tilts between members brought on by an effort to make the platform read as it had been drawn up, that the government should seize the railroads in payment of accual value and without paysums of money in his pockets. The Millard ment for franchise values. Unanimous ler deposits of $100,000 in the Wells Faront the words of the words o out the words "franchise values." inserting instead the phrase "watered stock or other fictitious values."

The committee also unanimously favored direct popular legislation as a means of obtaining the result.

The discussion in the committee room før outranked the deliberations of the main body of the conference. Ignatius Donnelly, John P. Altgeld, A. P. Mc-Quirk, of Iowa, and George Fred Williams urged the committee to strike from the resolutions proposed a statement that any payment for railroads should be exclusive of franchise value.

"This is a long fight," said Mr. Altgeld, "and it will be years before we come to the actual discussion of the proposition on which we are to base payment. Let us not encumber the discussion with it now."

Henry George, Jr., however, took the other side of the question. "We are going before the people," he said. "Let us go with the whole, plain truth, and let them judge of it."

Jerry Sunpson also favored this view He and McQuirk had a hot tilt. Many startling statements were made before the committee, among them one by President M. L. Lockwood, in which he said that before the government ownership was finally secured it would be necessary to impeach at least one justice of the federal supreme court. The committee also considered a proposition to recommend to the attention of congress Senator Pettigrew's bill for government ownership of railroads, but it was voted

A number of set speeches were heard at the conference.

Last night's session was in the form of a massmeeting, which was held at the Auditorium, and brought out some of the strongest speakers among the delegates, including John P. Altgeld, F. S. Monnott Consend T. Monnett. Joues, S. H Crossby, George Fred Williams and Tom

The platform adopted by the convention declares for government ownership of all public utilities and natural monopolies, government money, the referendum and direct legislation, and the withdrawal of all protective tariffs from all arricles controlled by a trust.

Preceding and in connection with the platform is a long address to the people, which attacks the Standard Oil and other trusts. One paragraph said:

We make no assault upon business combinations for diminishing productive cost and in-creasing productive efficiency. The more casily wealth is produced, and the more there is the better for everybody-provided distribution be equitable. What we do attack is combinations for coercing producers and lessening production. It is such combinations that consti tute the trust evil and them we would abolish root and branch.

Amasa Thornton, of New York, took umbrage at one action of the conference and refused to be longer identified with it. The trouble was caused by the adoption of resolutions introduced by Judge Fleming, of Kentucky, which strongly condemned the currency bill now before congress. The resolutions declared that the bill, if passed, will enthrone the money oligarchy and establish a continental bank trust, enslake the people and destroy the republic to the end that free government may perish from the earth.

 Λ committee to prepare a memorial to the United States senate against the bill was provided for, and the people of the country are urged to gather at court houses, school houses and other public places to protest against the measure.

Thomas L. Johnson, of Ohio, chair man of the committee on permanent or ganization, reported in favor of Frank S. Monnett, former attorney general of Ohio, for permanent chairman of the conference, and permanent vice presidents, representing most of the states and territories, were recommended and approved by the convention. Mr. Monnett was escorted to the chair and spoke briefly,

Threaten the British Line of Communication.

After Hard Fighting They Retired to Reusberg - French Joining Roberts Weakened the British Force In That Section-Boers Seized Advantage.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—4:20 a. m.—The news of the day is the enforced retirement of the British from the Colesberg district under heavy. Boer pressure and probably after brisk fighting. Thus at a time when Lord Roberts is apparently about to push an army into the Free State the Boers make a counter stroke in unknown but scemingly great force, not far from the vital line of railway connecting De Aar and Orange river. General French, when he joined Lord

Roberts, presumably took most of his cavalry. General Clements was left with the infantry to hold the Boers in check, but Commandant Delarey, with a double turning movement, has compelled the British to concentrate at Rensberg, beside threatening Lord Roberts' communications. LONDON, Feb. 14.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Rensburg, dated Feb. 13, says: "There has been hard fighting for two days near Colesberg, the Boers making stremuous efforts to outflank the British left. The enemy occupies strong positions from Achtertang, through Polfontein to a point five miles south of Jasfontein.

Mrs. Somerville at School.

The celebrated Mrs. Somerville (Mary Fairfax) was born over a hundred years ago. One day when she was 10 years old her patents sent her to a boarding school, a small and very expensive boarding school, kept by Miss Primrose, who was so stately and so severe that her pupils used to say they never saw her smile. Thanks to the healthy outdoor life she had always led, little Mary was straight and strong as a young Indian, but that did not save her from the ingenious tortures designed for stooping children, and which she describes for as in her memoirs: "A few days after my arrival I was inclosed in still stays with a steel busk in front, while, above my frock, bands drew my shoulders back till the shoulder blades met. Then a steel rod, with a semicircle which went under the chin, was clasped to the steel busk in my stays. In this constrained state I and most of the vounger children had to prepare our lessons. She was taught to sew, says Agnes Reppler in the St. Nicholas, very neatly, and in after years she grew so passionately found of study, of real, hard, severe nneompromising study, that it was necessary when she was 15 to take away her candles, so that she might The engineer knew nothing of it nor not sit up half the night over her books. Women Writers' Noms-de-Plume.

It is a curious fact that the majority of women who become really distinguished in literature under a nom de plume have done so under names that were either musculine or had no sex suggestion. Nobody could tell whether or not Currer Bell the nom-de-plume of Charlotte Bronte) was a man or woman. George Sand won an audience that would have been impossible for Aurore Dudevant, as did George Eliot one that would have cried Marian Evans quite down. Coming nearer our own time, there is John S range Winter-who is in private life Mrs. Stanpard; and John Oliver Holibs, the sensation of London, who is really Mrs Porty Cragie.

A HOUSEHOLD ECONOMY.

"I have discovered a way of saving money," said Wrs. South Orange the other day, with pride. "It doesn't save much at once, but it is the little savings, made continually, that tell. Mr. South Orange looked interested. ially as an economizer, was wholly of these muggy, dog-day mornings and

"Well." said Mrs. South Orange, drawing a long breath, "You know I keep an account in town here." Mr. Orange nodded and sighed to himself. His wife went on: "The other day I heard from a little tailor in the city -I mean New York, of course-that he had had to pay ten cents to get a two-dollar check cashed that I had sent him.

Man Drunk, Block Signals Soher.

The introduction of block signals on railroads running fast express trains has lessened the danger and also created a feeling of saffy in the minds of those who are compelled to travel to any exent.

The pilot on the engine of the postal express when it reached New London, bore the signs of an accident in which some track walker had lost his life. could be tell when the supposed accident happened.

None of the operators could shed any light on the mystery, but, strange to say, the operator in the tower just east of the Westerley station failed to respond. Reneatedly he was called up, but to no purpose.

An investigation showed that he was lying on the floor, dead drunk. From the appearance of things it looked to those present at the station as if the man had set out deliberate'y to r lebrate. All the signals were set as safety, and there was no reason why the towerman should have been disturbed.

APPETITE COMES BY EATING

Disinclination to Eat in the Morning Conquered Easily by Effort.

"Hungry as a shark!" says many & man as he sits down to breakfast on a bracing winter morning and falls to indiscriminately on oatmeal, chops, baked potatoes or whatsoever offers. "No desire for a morsel!" often says the same man as he takes his seat on one board. Not even a spley nutmeg melon, cut in halves, stuffen with cracked ice and breathing a delicious tragrance enough to his jaded senses to tempt him to raise a spoon to his lips and transfer a little gouge out of the me on into his mouth.

What is the reason of all this? Pare laziness! The man's tongue, his nostrils, his jawe, his salivary glands, his internal pepsin apparatus-all that constitute him physically-are permeated with laziness, and as averse to any kind of work as a tramp to sawing wood for breakfast. The tramp is affected in this way only so far as his muscles and his will are involved. No one ever knew him to reject an unsawed-for breakfast. But here is the case of a man totally abandon d to laziness in muscle, nerve, senses. desire, secretion and feeling. His system has struck work in every organ from crown to toe. He is listless, inert, apathetic, tramp, breckfast, and

Few people over study the subject of laziness as it deserves to be studiedespecially by the lazy themselves. Healthiest Town in America.

The honor of being the healthiest town in the United States, and perhaps in the world, helongs to Millerstown, Pa. The death rate, according to the latest statistics, issued from Washington, gives M Herstown but one in every 1,000 inhabitarts. The average death for the big towns and cities in the United States runs from ten in 1,000 up to twenty and even more.

Millerstown has about 2,500 inhabitants. It lies in the Juniata Valley at the base of the Blue Mountains overharging the Juniata River, about th rty-three miles west of Harrisburg on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The exceedingly healthy condition of the town is largely due to the water supply which is free from pollution. The town is supplied with water from springs which flow into the Junista-River. While it is not claime! that the springs contain medicinal properties the water is transparently nure. The absence of any manufactorie or big works keeps the air free fr in smoke and dirt.

The sanitary arrangements of the town are in excellent condition and receive close attention from the officials.

Intoxicating lieuors are almost on unknown quantity although the town is not prohibition. The people are quite up to date in all their surroundings and occupations.

CRIMSON CLOVER.

a Recent Years This Plant Has Come Into Prominence in This Country.

lA bulletin of the United States department of agriculture says: Crimson clover (trifolium incarnatum), also known as scarlet clover, German clover, Italian clover and cama'i u clover, is an annual plant, native to southern Europe, and has long been cultivated as a forage crop in the warmer portions of that country. It is an erect, tufted plant, one to two feet high, with soft-hairy stems and through the room, makes appeal leaves, and usually bright scarlet flowers in elongated heads. The roct system is well developed and penetrates deeply into the soil and the plant is a vigorous grower. Crimson clover will not stand severe freezing, although it is one of the so-called "winter annuals" and under favorable conditions makes much of its growth during the cool, moist weather of fall, winter and early spring. While requiring a warm climate, it will not endure severe drouth.

Crimson clover has come into prominence in this country within comparatively recent years. It can hardly be regarded as a successful crop outside of the region from New Jersey. west to the Alleghany mountains and south to eastern Tenne see and Texas. True, good yields are often obtained in other sections, but cannot be depended upon year after year. In the meddle and south Atlantic states this clover is one of the best crops that can be grown for forage and soil renovation. It has given good results in many portions of the galf states, but man. faimes are also reported roll'er sections of the country this dever is some imes succe ally grown es a number crop, but it it usually wenthe wills budly when sown in the apturin. At the experiment sections in Donk Island, New York Ohlo Michien , Honeis, South D. kor : Nobr ska and other states in the North and West the general results of tests show that it is too tender for the climita and is less valuable than red clover. The bulletin publishes the following corelisions:

Crimson clover is an annual, not and pastures, and too te der for suce -sful general cultivation outside of the middle and south Atlanti and gulf states. It thrives best in warm, m ist learns of at least moderate fertility. and makes most of its growth in the fall and early spring.

The seed should be sown in late summer or early autumn (July 15 to September 15) at the rate of from ten to twenty pounds per acre on a wellprepared seed-bed. It may be sown alone or with other crops, a frequent practice being to sow with corn, potators and like crops at or after the last cultivation. The seed may also be sown in the spring, but the results are not as satisfactory as when sown as above stated.

Crimson clover has a high feeding and fentilizing value, and is one of the best crops that can be grown in short rotations for forage and soil renovation, lending itself readily to use for hay, pasturage, soiling salage green manure, and as a soll cover to prevent leaching and washing.

The crop should be cut for hay at or before full bloom, and for seed as soon as ripe; in the latter cast it should be thrashed or put under cover as soon as dry.

The commercial possibilities which await the tropical island territories which have come into closer relationship with the Unilled Stat a during the past year in supplying a perma out and growing market in this country are suggested by the figure, which the Treasury Bureau of Stati ti s has obtained of the importation of hopical and sub-tropiel products into the United States do ing the ten months of the present year, compared with that of the corresponding months of the procelling year. They amount to no less thin $280,000,000, or an average of over $1,000,000 for each business day of the year. The figures include raw silk, ten rice, and the small portion of sugas which is manufactured from beets; but even if these be omitted, the total which would be clearly entitled to be sugar, coffee, India rubber, fibres. tropical fruits and nuts, caeao, tobacco of finer grades, spices, dye woods, caliinct woods, etc. Curiously enough, all these articles can be and are now produced to a greater or less extent in the islands in question, sugar cane being grown in large quantities in Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii, and the Phil'ppines. Coffee is successfully grown in all of the islands in question and at one time was a very important erop in islands. The Philippines are already supplying the most important feature of our fibers, Manila hemp, which alone in the present year will amount to about $6,000,000 in value.

CEDAR STREET MATTER.

The Solicitor Instructed to Settle with Mr. Crawford for $500—Though the Oulbertson Damage Claim Has Been Paid, Mr. Jacoby is Still Full of Fight.

Members Smith and Wester were absent from the Monday evening meeting of the council. The city officers were all present.

Solicitor Young stated that he could settle the Cedar street difficulty with R. B Crawford, sr., for $500, and advised that the settlement be made. A stone wall to the west of the Crawford property, at the corner of Main and Cedar streets. is said to extend seven feet over the Cedar street eastern line. This fact came to light when it was decided to improve Cedar street more than a year ago. Mr. Crawford refused to remove the wall, claiming that this would damare his residence, and that the wall had been in existence a sufficient time to entitle him to the possession of this part of the street. He also served notice that a suit for $2,500 would be instituted if the wall was removed by the council, The matter was carried into court, and the decision was against the city. Mr. Kouth remarked that he thought the city ought to proceed with the improvements. "We'd be acting cowardly," said he, "if we'd settle this matter." And when Mr. Johns's motion to settle the matter was put, Mr. Kouth voted no. The motion was carried, however. The selector said that several months ago the Crawfords refused to settle for less than $1,000. Some time later they asked $700. Then they came down to $500. CREAMERIES.

Are They Beneficial or a Detriment to the

Some writers for farm papers have declared that it was a mistake for farmers to allow the manufacture of milk into butter and cheese to leave the farm. It may have been so in some particular cases which these critics had in their "mind's eye," but according to my experience cream ries, when established in localities that within reaching distance to keep then have a sufficient number of farmers running to their full capacity the year round, are a benefit to the r patronand reasonably profitable to their own ers. If it was a mistake to permit the manufacture of butter and chee e a leave the farm, why was it not a mitake to permit the manufacture of wool, and flax into cleth, to leave the There are people still living who can remember the time when t e hand cards, for carding wool, the bigwheel for spinning the rolls, or "bats the reel for reeling the vain from the spindle the quill-wheel for purting the yarn on "quills" for the shuttle, the loom for weaving the cloth, and the dye tub for coloring, could be found in nearly every house. It was the same with flax which was "roted," br ken in a "break," swinglet, hatcheled, spun on a little wheel, and woven in a hand loom on the farm. The argument against creameries is equally effectual against all manufa turing establishments and labor-saving machines, and would, if earried cut, slowly lead us back to the rude implements of barbarism.

Why did the farmers permit the carding machines, the spinning jacks and the power looms to drive them out of the business of making cloth? It was because machinery driven by water or steam power could do the work so much faster and cheap'r than it was possible to do it on the farm. It is the same with the manufacture of milk into butter and cheese. As a rule, it can be done more quickly, better and cheaper at the factorics. There is no question that people who are constantly doing but one thing become expent in doing it. Some farmers and their wives can make just as good butter as the creamery men, but that all do not do it, is proven by the higher price the creamery butter brings in all the markets. Nobody will dispute that business can be done on a large scale cheaper than on a small one. The man who churus, works, salts, packs and ships 1,000 pounds of butter in a day can do it cheaper than the man who churns but ten, although he may do some other work besides.

or two of them. I wanted a couple of shade-trees on the outer edge of the lawn, and decided that they might as well be fruit-trees and bear som thing besides leaves as not, so after looking the matter up a little. I planted two Stark apples. To be sure, they are trees, and they shade the spots where they are, but they are about as ornamental as old sald-barrels. If I had known what I do now their places would now be occupied by Grimes' Golden trees. These are next, compact and really ornamental trees, while the fruit is not surpas el by any apple that grows. Along the path to the gate I decided to plant another frull-bearing shade-tree, and like a minny selected a Howell pear. If any. body can see an atom of ornament about it I should be glad to have it pointed out. The fruit is first-class, but the shape of the tree is anything but fair to look upon. Had I planted instead either a Keiffer of Koonce pear I would now have a tree that won we an ornament to any ground. The fouit of the Keiffer, when properly repened, is good for dessert, and excellent stewed canned or in pies, while that of the Koonce, which is an early pear, is good

Cut Down the Weeds Along the Road In several drives in different directions we have noticed an unusual numher of thistles, along the way. Some farmers have cut them down in front of their premises, but many have not the law on the subject, passed in 1897. This law allows $1.25 for eight hours work in destroying briers, thistles, docks and other noxious weeds; the amount to be deducted from the taxes against the property. In case the owner fails to do the work before a cortain time, the supervisor is empowered to hire it done by any resident property owner, on the same terms. But unfortunately the thistles are so early in maturing their seeds this year that by the date named they will have been blown all over the country. It is a great credit to the farmers to have the weed cleaning done early and thor-

"The Story of the Philippines" is a graphic and comprehensive recital by pen and pencil of America's glorious victory at Manila, an officially authentic description of the islands, a clear presentation of their history, their people, products, resources, government, schools, churches—and all information con-

The British doubtless take comfort in the fact that their third serious check which they have been called upon to face in Natal can be characterized as a "retreat" and not a "repulse." Reports from Capetown express considerable disquietude as to the outlook politically, the Cape Dutch being expected to take a strong hand in favor of their republican kinsmen as soon as Lord Roberts shall have entered republican territory. It is to be feared that the 194,000 men spoken of by Mr. Wyndham and Mr. Chamberlain to be in South Africa in another month, will be of little use if the Afrikander element in the colony rise and cut off their communications with the coast. The opinion is freely expressed that the policy of Sir an Afrikander revolt.

The Journal of Education as is consistent with its character as a disseminator of knowledge, including that of grammar, has been annoyed by the lack of uniform ity in treating the number of the term "United States," and accordingly sent out circulars to leading authors and publishers containing the question: "Shall we say 'the United States is a republic,' or 'the United States are a republic'" The replies show that there is still a diversity of opinion on this time worn question. The Toledo Blade takes the position which has always been maintained by The Independent. Its reply is reproduced from the Journal:

The Blade uses the form "The United States is." This point was settled by the civil war. That decided that this union is not a congeries of independent states, any one of which may resume its independence by a formal withdrawal or secession from the union, but an indivisible whole-hence a unit: hence "is."

When Governor Taylor directed the Kentucky legislature to meet at London, in the southern part of the state, because the Democrats defied him. They dewhether or no. Then they went to the first. Louisville, where they have since spent their time passing frantic and bitter resolutions against the governor for preventing their meeting in Frankfort. Last Saturday Governor Taylor agreed with them that the legislature should meet in Frankfort and sent away the militia so that there should not be any hindrance. Since then the Democrats them away from Frankfort have been howling that they would not come now because he asked them to come. Yesterday Senator Triplett offered a resolution to the effect that the Democrats at Louisville name Frankfort as their next meeting place. This resolution will probably be acted upon, and Democratic dignity having been maintained, events in Kentucky may take their natural course, and the present tangle stand some chance of being unraveled.

The New York Sun has unearthed an interesting coincidence. It will be remembered that the Hon. Joseph C. S. Blackburn pronounced the funeral oration at the coffin of William Goebel. Senator Blackburn said:

"Build here over his grave a mighty towering granite shaft that shall dety corroding touch of time. Inscribe upon it an epitaph that shall be worthy of the man. He has earned this at our hands. In life and death he was consecrated to the people's cause. He lived an honest life, and gave his life for your deliverance. spirit." At Covington on Sunday, April 14, 1895, Senator Blackburn pronounced anlother funeral oration at the coffin of Colonel John L Sanford. In this oration the senator said:

"John Sanford was to me like a brother. I loved him. I hope God may spare me, kidneys and bowels are out of order. If and I shall make it my life's mission to avenge him by burying his slaver in the they bring, use Dr. King's New Life depths of merited public execration."

The present Ohiolaw which aims to make this phase of education compulsory has failed to accomplish the purpose designed, because it lacks enforcing provisions and does not in any way provide for the education of teachers. The bill which is about to be introduced provides that all teachers in each and every county shall receive at least ten consecutive drills and lessons. including both theory and practice. Cities may employ specialists, continuously, to supervise and conduct this work in the schools, which includes training the teachers to be assistants. Teachers outside of cities shall receive instruction at the teachers' institutes. This provision. however, does not hinder viliages, special districts or townships from employing a specialist who shall conduct the ten lessons or drills if it is so desired. The proper introduction of this work is provided for, with the necessary expense reduced to the minimum.

Physical education, for which the champions of the bill are working, is not a branch of study; it is one of the three great departments in education-physical, mental and moral. As a department it must include practical knowledge of the laws of hygiene; also conditions and circumstances which concern the physical welfare of students while receiving education at the hands of the state. SUDDEN DEATH OF A CHILD

Supposed to be the Same Doctor Who Formerly Practiced at East Greenville-He has Left the County for

A physician named Kimber, supposed to be the same man who formerly practiced medicine at East Greenville, and against whom ugly stories were circulated in connection with the sudden death of his mother in law, is in trouble at Windsor, Richland county, and may be held to answer for the death of a 3-year-old girl. The story, as told by the Mansfield Shield, of Monday, is that on December 31 t Dessie Smith, a child whom Dr. Kimber had taken from the children's home in Mansfield a few weeks before, died of convulsions at the doctor's home. Kimber applied to the trustees of the home for a coflin, which was furnished, but no funeral was held. The people of Windsor became suspicious, and the coroner was finally notified that there was reason to suspect that the ination revealed numerous bruises on the head, and the brain was found to be very much congested.

Kimber says the child, while sick fell from a sofa, striking her head on a coal hod, but the evidence taken before the coroner indicates that the injuries could not have resulted from a fall. Alfred Milner directly aims at producing An Automobile Purchased The coroner rendered a verdict that death was due to external violence, and not to convulsions brought on by stomach troubles, as claimed by Dr. Kimber. The fact that the doctor has left for parts unknown is taken as an evidence of guilt by the people of Windsor. He left the village on Saturday, going to Pavona train for the West, but instead, took an east bound train, and it is said was seen in Ashland that day. The Shield says it was probable that a warrant would be issued for his arrest, yesterday, and that the case would be taken before the special Massillon's first automobile will arrive grand jury, which will meet in two weeks.

Dr. Kimber moved to Windsor about the middle of December last, and had was located in Mansfield for a short time.

House Bill No. 29.

Daliton, Feb. 12 .- The news that House bill No. 29, according to W. H. Wertz, of this place, the right to detach 163 acres of land from the corporation, would die in the hands of a committee, received in Dalton Saturday night, created general satisfaction. Of course everybody felt that it would have been better if the bill had come up in the house and had been defeated, but as the committee did not think it necessary to return any kind of a report on it, that could hardly be expected. The passage of the bill meant a saving of about $40 a year in taxes to Mr. Wertz. There are many people in the village who declare that if Mr. Wertz had been permitted to withdraw from the town, they, too, would have had bills of this kind introduced. Under such circumstances, in a few years, there would be little left of Dalton. Councilman Harvey Santmyer, who was in Columbus looking after the interests of the village, has returned.

SLAUGHTERER MILLER'S HIDES Thieves at an Abbatoir Prevent School Board Meeting.

NAVARRE, O., Feb. 13 .-- John C. Miller, killer of cattle and member of the board of education, was making his way to a special session of the latter body the other night, when word came that burglars were in his slaughter-house, just beyond the southern corporate limits. Mr. Miller did not go to the board meeting. He remembered that he had $75 worth of hides in the killing pen and that he could ill afford to lose them. He and others frightened the burglars away. Nothing was missing from the slaughter-house. Harlan Whisler has measured the footprints of the burglars, left in the soft mud, and he declares that they are precisely like those left about his shambles the last time a big bunch of hides was carried away from him. When the other members of the august board of directors heard of the slaughter house affair, they immediately adjourned and sought out their brother to offer their services in the hunt for the villains. Consequently the board did not take any action in the Sluss matter. which, as time passes, grows more and more complicated.

Northern Division of Fresh Water Sailors Demand an Increase in Pay -Captain Roan, of Massillon, Thinks a Larger Advance Should be Asked

Representatives of the recently organzed Boatmen's Union of the northern division of the Ohio canal, with headquarters at Akron, are working among the local bargemen. Nearly all of the latter have agreed to join the organizaia, at which place he said he would take tion, which has already demanded an advance of ten cents per ton for every cargo. Captain Roan, of the Colonel Jarvis, is one of the Massillon boatmen strongly in faver of the union.

"But a ten-cent demand is not enough," said he today. "There isn't a cent in boating at the present rate, and while we're raising the price I think we ought to raise it high. In every other line there has been a big upward jump, and I don't see why the poor followers of the old channel shouldn't profit a little also. My boat I sunk long before last season was over simply because there was more money in having it well soaked and away from the wear and tear than there was in trying to do a busi-If we can get the rates up, the coming season ought to be a good one, for there'll be lots of boating."

There are few boats on the canal at present, for this is the time of year when cold weather blows up without warning, and the skippers are too much afraid of being ice-bound to take chances on long trips. Massillon boatmen are all watching the canal commission and the legislature very closely. Most of them would be satisfied if the state but restored the waterway to its condition of twenty years ago. Few like the ship canal idea. On the other hand, if the state decides to abandon the canal they claim they will lose nothing, for the government will be obliged to pay them for their craft and what goes with them.

The stamp sale, so the authorities say, is just about double to day. Fifty dollars is a fair day's sale. It will be more than a $100 today. That means that twice as much mail as usual is handled. It is estimated that the mails are heavier this year than they were on the same holiday in 1899, and it certainly finds the postoffice people bet ter prepared to look after the additional work, as there are now six regular carriers. OVERHEATED HOUSES.

How to luxure Against This and Blake the Apartments a Comfort.

In answer to the question, "Are we drying up in our overheated houses?" some housekeepers have already settled a defense for themselves by a very simple contrivance. Remembering that delightful kindergarden story, "The Towel Gave a party," which is intended to stow the working of capillary attraction, the gousts bring a lamp which brought its wick and a sponge, which came in a fin coach or basin. Madame Housekeeper utilizes this plain idea. She places a china or glass bowl on the floor, in front of the hot-air "register." or the receptacle may be a brass jardinere or one of the cheap red Japanese bowls, large enough to a sure a good supply of water. She then throws a handsome towel over one of those lowdown towl racks that take up very little room, allowing the trings of the towel barely to dip in the water. The towel rack is thus converted into a handsome little screen, the list air evaporates the moisture from the sh ping damask, and thus sends a quantity of moistened air into the sleeping apartment, to the great comfort of its inmates.

Everyone knows that a kitchen wtodow is the best place in the house for growing ferns, as the steam of the teakettle to say nothing of the constant use of hot water from the holer and even the incense that the washtub sends up, all keep the air most agreeable to breathe for either human beings or green growing things. The atmosphere of most kitchens is exceedingly pleasant and wholesome on this ac-

It is surprising to notice the large quanity of water which the towel evaporator disposes of in dispensing it to the atmosphere of the sitting room or sleeping apartment. You will have to fill that bowl far oftener than rou think would be needed.

If your bookbindings are drying up and cracking, your furniture coming apart, your hair coming out, your windows rattling in even a little wind, these are all notifications that the house air is too hot and dry, to say nothing of the more serious warnings given out by the headaches or weakened throats and lungs. There is even a sort of "hayfever cold" and sneezing which comes of sitting in these too dry rooms, and which is at once relieved by getting into the moist, colder air of 'out of doors."

A Convenient Paper Pocket.

A pretty and serviceable receptacle for newspapers and magazines may be made of an ordinary wire broiler. Break or cut off the short handle, wind wide silk or satin ribbon all around the trame, and cover the remaining handle. Then braid ribbon of another color in and out, across the wires of the front part, and the sides of the back, leaving the remainder plain. Pull the ribbons tight around the corners at the bottom, and as they are worked upwards, gradually leave them looser so as to form wedge-shaped pocket. Fasone side of the front, and another over the ring on the handle.

Sleep and Beauty.

You cannot be sleepless and beautiful. You cannot indulge simultaneously in insomnia and a clear complexion. Even late hours are a fee to bright eyes, and as for a troubled conscience or a disordered liver that keps you awake at night, neither can exist with an unwrinkled skin.

As soon as you notice that you cannot sleep, at once try to accertain the cause. many persons can sleep well when their beds are from north to south, who are wakeful if they lie from east to west. Change your led into a differedt position and into another part of the room. Next look to your windows. If there has been much light in the room, banish it at once and have the room quite dark at night.

Always make a point of sleeping with the window partly open. Absence of fresh air is often the cause of sleepleesness by causing an extreme nervous feeling from the lack of oxygen in the bed-room, which makes us very wakeful and excites the brain.

Next see to the bed-clothes, the lows and bed. Never sleep on a feather-bed, but always on a hair mattress, A spring mattress should be under this. Your bed-clothes should be warm in Winter and cool in Summer, but never heavy, as the weight is very bad for The pillows should not be too high. The head should be well out of the South moved up from 1,509,000 the bed-clothes, so as to have as much 10 5,675,000. The old debating subject fresh breathing air as possible. Too soft pillows are bad; they must be well would seem to be appropriate as well and fully stuffed with feathers and not as trite. allowed to get flat at all.

Sleepleseness is often caused by want of food. Many people take their last meal too long before bedtime, and it is the faintness caused by hunger that prevents sleep. A half glass of hot milk should be taken at bedtime, and a biscuit. Biscuits, bread and butter, or milk should be within reach, and if you cannot sleep, they should be taken at | ten, only such a quantity as they will once. Often a drink f water will bring the wished-for sleep, and hot water is much more likely to bring about this roult than cold.

MANURES IN THE FALL.

Antumn is the Best Time for Hauling

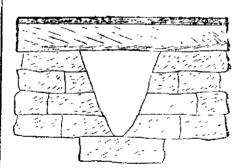

One of the problems with manure is when to apply it to the best advantage. No rule given will apply to all farms, as they differ. land, or that which is subject to the leaching of rains, will lose a larger portion of the soluble portions of manure than level plots. The best time to haul manure is when the farmer has less work to do in some other direction. Highly as manure is valued, its rost in hauling is sometimes greater than the value of its plant food, and the hauling and spreading is therefore the most costly and important tem connected with it, the distance, kind of manure, actual value of the manure, and facilities for handling it having their effect on the value of the whole, and affecting the results to be derived from it. It has been demonstrated, however, that the majority of farmers can handle manure and spread it on their fields in the fall at less cost than at any other season of Manure can deteriorate in quality while in a heap as well as when washed by rains or dried by the sun. Some farmers prefer to plow their land and harrow the manure in, but this necessitates the hauling over plowed ground. Others spread the manure and then plow with a one-horse plow, while many simply spread the manure on the surface and allow it to remain. If there is no danger of rain carrying away the soluble material the spreading on the surface will be satisfactory but it is a risk. Manure can be used on wheat land in the fall, for next year's crop, to the best advantage, but If it is to be applied elsewhere it will pay to work it into the top soil in some manner, even if with only a cultivator, as there is sure to be a loss of soluble and volatile matter if exposed on the surface throughout the winter, and until the land is plowed in the spring.

Advanced farmers now use their manure in the fall and apply fertilizers in the spring. Phosphates are applied in the fall, however, along with the manure, in order to allow more time for solubility before spring, Nitrogenous fertilizers and potash being more soluble are applied in the spring. The question to be considered, however, is whether the farmer is willing to give his manure in the heap his attention in winter. If he can do so he will reduce his manure to a fine condition, and have it sultable for early crops, but if the manure in the heap is to receive no care, no handling or turning over, it will be better to spread that now on hand on land that requires it the most, and begin another heap with mater'als which are to be added in the future. Fertilizers are available at all times, and need not be applied, if preferred, until the occasion arrives for their use.

An Improved Culvert.

A correspondent of Good Roam sends to that journal the sketch which we reproduce. "The object of making a culvert in this shape." he says, "is to confine the water to a narrow space, that it may rise in the basin that is usually found on the upper side of the road, thus causing depth. volume and force, to earry through the culvert any sediment that may have accumulated in it, and also to prevent the water from freezing in winter. In use it proves to be a success."

Ensilage Versus Roots The corn crop in this country has a ways largely taken the place of roots for feeding stock. Probably if England could grow corn as the United States can its growth of roots for catten a bow made of the same ribbone to the and sheep feeding would be lessened; but the fact that roots are succulent food, while areal cornstalks are not, has to some made it seem a necessity to grow roots for parts of the winter ration. Ensilage removes this necessity. It is succulent and has genrally a higher nutritive value than has roots. The greatest of the advantages of ensitage is that the cutting and filling of the silo is n one operation and all the work of cutting is done by horse or steam power. Where roots are fed there is a daily job of cutting and slicing them so that they may be safely eaten. It is not a job big enough to use horse or steam power, and the daily task of slicing roots by hand labor soon becomes an intolerable nuisance.

From Country to City. Large towns and cities are in 100 nany instances built up at the expense of the country districts. In recent years the trend in this direction has been great and in many States the urban population is apparently outgrowing the rural population. This is so in the South and equally true in some of the northern States. Census returns show that while the agracultural population of seventeen southern States increased 55 per cent, from 1860 to 1890 the urban population has in the same period increased 276 per cent, or five times as fast. In other words while the number of people in the country increased from 10,806,000 to 16,773,000. the population of the towns and cities of "how to keep the boys on the farm"

Feeding Sheep,

A sheep is an animal that is easily overfed, and one if overfed requires a longer time to recover from the effects than almost any other animal. There is no class of stock that it is more injurious to leave feed before. In all feeding, whether for growth or to fatreadily eat up clean should be given. In faltening, in nearly all cases the better plan is to gradually increase the grain ration, and not put on a full fattening food too rapidly.

Especially is this the case with young persons who are fond of society. They live for the sake of having good times, but whether they have them or not depends upon the way in which they take the world and what it sends them. One of the happiest of young women is a girl who has learned early to accept day by day whatever comes to her and never anticipates such wonderful things as she hears about and reads of. Whatever other girls may say or do, she keeps on the even and quiet path that she has chosen. When her young friends are preparing for gala times she is serene and peaceful, while they are all in flutter. And they pity her and say: Poor Gladys, she never seems to enjoy anything." And "after the ball" she is so well satisfied and so content, while the other girls are were cultivating. They Swing Their Arms.

The queer habit men have of regarding women as mysterious beings whose actions and modes of thought are quite incomprehensible, was amusingly illustrated recently by a writer who wondered, through a column and more, why women, when walking, seemed embarrassed about how to dispose of their hands. The custom of the sex of carrying purse, card-case, umbrella or other something was explained to be an effort to solve the question of what should be done with her hands. INDIAN'S GOOD WILL

WESTERN RAILROAD BELIEVES IT IS WELL TO HAVE THE SAME.

He Knows When He is Well Treated and Seldom Expects Anything Unreasonable We Never Try to Impose Upon the Indian Nor Do We Permit Them to Impose on Us

As the traveller passes through the big Sloux reservation in Montana on the overland express he is impressed with the uniform respect with which the Indians trest everybody connec ed with the railroad. The Indian is no fool," said a Great Northern official with whom I discussed the subject. "He knows when he is well treated and seldow. expects anything unreasonable. This railroad has never knowingly done an Indian a wrong. We paid liberally for the right to cross the reservation, and any differences that arise are treated with consideration. We never try to impose upon the Indians in any way, nor do we permit them to impose upon us. When trains first began to run through the reservation, a number of ponies were killed by acsident. We promptly paid for them. and the owners were satisfied. A few conning Soux thought they saw in the situation an opportunity to make money, and drove their ponies to the tracks to be killed and paid for. We discovered the trick and appealed to the chief, who promptly suppressed

Another story is connected with payment for the right of way through the reservation. It may not be quite accurate in letter. but it is true in spirit. The through express from St. Paul to Helena had not been running tong when a strange incident happered out on the prairie.

A So any Indian, feathered in stately tashion and mounted on a horse or rare beauty, occupied a conspicuous position beside the track and gave the engineer a friendly signal to stop. Off went the steam and a gentle touch of the airbrake brought the long train to a standstill.

The red man explained that he represented his tribe in a matter of right of way. There had been a mistake and the railroad ought to pay some more money. In this formul and diplomatic manner, the Indian expl ined, the matter was presented for adjus'ment, in full confidence that the great white chief who built the railroad would be just to his led'an fit outs.

For the engineer this was a paser, He had no idea that he was a diplomat, but he was, all the same. He called the conductor, and all three discussed the case. The wnite men knew nothing of the merits of the matter. The Indian talked like one who understood his business and was telling

The amount involved was only ai few dollars, and the conductor looked as wise as possible. He was a man of common sense sharpened by frontier life. With due deliberation he wrote out a receipt, which the Indian ambassador signed and the engineer watnessed. The money was paid onto of the cash collections, and the conference was at an end.

The red man mounted his ho set and applied his spurs. The engineer stepped into the cab and pulled a lev-

For an instant a party of Eastern capitalists occupying an observation car were face to face with an Ird.an horseman. The white men received a lasting impression of majestic dignity and grace. The red man wis dazzled by a vision of luxury of which he had never dreamed.

The extremes of civilization and savagery had met and part d in friendship. The Indian, according to tribal custom, reported the success of his mission with solemn formality and suppresed joy.

The train conductor, according to the regulations of a m dorn corporation, made a notation to the auditor on a blank form provided for the purpose, explaining why he was short in bis each and asking that his report be held in abeyance until he could secure the approval of his irregular act by a higher official. The approval came, with a statement that the Indian was right. There had been a mirtake in the rightof-way settlement. It was also stilled that the President of the railroad had intimated that while rules are s cred things, there are times when common sense may serve a good purpose.

Time of Birth and Reight.

According to Combe boys born in the months of September. October, November, December, January and February are not so tall as those born in other months. Those born is November are the shortest. Girls according to the same authority, born in December, January, February, March, April, and May show a less leagth of body than those born in the re-na-ning months. Those born from June to November are taller, but the tal est are born in August. To some extent these facts are attributed to comomic conditions, for a child born in some mer has generally better food and air.

Even Duplicates Welcome.

If you are at a loss to know what to give for a wedding present to some one you like very much, follow the example of a well-known New York merchant, whose granddaughter left him to set up a home of her own the other day. He made the bride hold; her dainty hands together and them filled them brimful and flowing over with twenty dollar gold pieces. You will find that those philanthropists to the rewly wed, the purchasers of ducalled on to put your gift to some nigher quality can be assured. practical use.

AROUND THE FARM.

Many Interesting Notes That Are Worth the Readings Prof. Henry shows by experiment that it costs $2.61 to produce 100 pounds of gain with lambs, and $3.03 to produce the same gain with pigs of about the same age. The results of experiments made in detasseling corn do not seem to justify i farmer in wasting much time in that way. He can employ himself more prefitably. Farm dairies can beat the creameries in quality of butter, because they can secure a perfect condition of their milk, and it is not subjected to long and dangerous hauls over dusty roads in hot weather, churning and pounding inno-cent milk and cream into undesirable or immature butter.

Within the last thirty-five years the average weight of fleeces produced in the United States has doubled. This is due to the fact that the sheep have been better cared for in every way than formerly and more intelligently managed, especially with reference to breeding.

Cattle may be kept alive on almost anything-on a dried-up pasture in the fall or on a straw stack in the winter; but men who practice such methods are not stockmen, nor even farmers, but mere robbers, who try to get something for nothing from both their stock and the soil.

A recent enactment of the New York Legislature provides that to every person using a two-horse or larger wagon with wheels the tire of which is not less than three inches in width on the public highways, a rebate of half his highway taxes will be granted. This law was made in the interest of good

The commercial value of a tree is wholly out of proportion to the cost of producing it. If you do not quite believe this price two adjoining town lots, one well planted with trees and the other bare to the sun and the wind; or see what a naked farm will sell for in comparison with one so well set with trees that it has a green and pleasant

The really choice buffer to be found n any market at any time is not equal to the entire product on sale. The rrice for the best is always high enough o insure a profit to the maker, and the price of the lowest is always low nough to insure a loss. By estimating the average value of may of all kinds at nearly 80 a ton, the antisticians of the Census Bureau have igured up a total valuation of the hay grop of the United States in 1888 at the enormous sum of $408,499,565. If my reliance is to be placed in census eturns, the hay crop greatly exceeds in value the cotton production, which in 1888 amounted to $292,000,000. act, Indian corn and wheat are the mly two staples that exceed hay in value and importance.

Fruit Farms Near Markets.

The most important point, and one that is often overlooked in beginning fruit farming, is to select a location as near a good market as possible. It is better if near a city or large village. where the retail market may be made the most of. But there must be at east a near-by railway station. Even then the man who has to hand by team his fruit the longer dislance is at a great disadvantage. He perhaps makes something, while if his orchard were located nearer the station ac might reap an equal harvest every year. It will do for stock and wool growers, whose entire product can be marketed with comparative case, to select places at a distance from markets, but for the grower of fruit it is the most serious blunder it is possible for him to make.

Tree Roots in Wells.

There are several kinds of trees which should not be planted near wells. Elm and locust roots we know from personal experience will travel lifteen to twenty feet in search of water. Lorust roots run deep, and will often find water when it does not come within ten or twelve feet of the surface. It s hest to cut them down when in full eaf, so as to prevent sprouting if they stand anywhere near a house well. The locust is often mistakenly planted near houses for shelter, and as the irees grow older they are sure to give rouble if a well is anywhere near their Their roots give a very unpleasant taste to water. In some cases this taste is the first knowledge the owner of the well has that anything s wrong with it.

Rye After Turnips.

The turnip crop is the latest of all to be cleared from the land. It is not njured by light freezing. Rye is the only grain that can be sown after a turnip crop. Often it barely comes up before winter stops its growth, but on fairly rich land it will be nearly as forward next summer as tye sown a month earlier. The fall growth of winter grain only counts as help to make a live through the winter.

Ordering Nursery Stock.

It is a good plan to procure trees and shrubs intended for next spring's planting in the fall, heel them in, and wait until spring before setting them out. The stocks of trees are always fullest in the fall, and those who order first can get varieties that a few months later may be out of stock. The rule is first come first served. The best also Tracked by a Bulldog.

CHATTANOOGA, Feb. 12.—The postoffice at Dayton, Tenn.. was burglarized and all the stamps and government articles of negotiable value stolen. A Chattanooga bulldog was placed on the trail, and went without hesitation from the postoffice to the residence of Charles Johnson, a fireman at a flour mill. Johnson protested his innocence, but a search of his house uncovered a complete outfit of explosives and all the paraphernalia used by expert cracks-

The Canal Fulton deer chase did not pan out as expected, the weather and everything seemed to be against it. It is reported that J. W. McClymonds, of club's hands, or we were going to suggest that the notorious animal be turned unloaded at the workhouse to keep company with the Canton bloodhounds.

George Solo, of Canal Fulton, visited his "butty." John Sadler, last Sunday. Fourth class postmasters on the renewal of their bonds, are required to place the fifty cent internal revenue stamps on the same, thereby taking about one week's salary.

There is evidently some misapprehension on the position Hon. R. A. Pollock took during the contest of the Clark local option bill at Columbus last week. The action of the Prohibition party last fall failed to place a mortgage on Mr. Pollock's vote for temperance legislation, but evidently foreclosed the one they had on Mr. Metzger's. Mr. Pollock declared himself on the report of the committee as being opposed to the measure, and as the bill was compelled to receive the constitutional majority it was immaterial whether Mr. Pollock voted or not. His not voting would count against the bill any way, this was understood. We learn from reports that the petition for the re-appointment of R. M. Haseltine, as chief inspector of mines, is being numerously signed by our miners. Now, Mr. Editor we have no desire to become monotonous in this particular matter, but with your permission we would like to give a little explanation in the premises. We reiterate that no miner can stand up and give a fair reason why Mr. Haseltine merits his signature for re-appointment. We look upon the scheme of again revising the old wornout method of circulating a petition. which has long since served its purpose, as a trick to catch the miners approval, which certainly have considerable bearing with Governor Nash when the appointment comes up for consideration. The office of chief inspector of mines is exclusively for the mining industry no other avocations coming under its jurisdiction. As we stated before the coal operators are approval of the other party in order to show Governor Nash that all the parties concerned are in favor of their man. In order to do this the assistant inspector is given a petition to circulate and when he reaches the mine he easily secures the assistance of the mine boss who goes to each miner separately and requests him to sign this petition. The result is very clear. They would fear to court the displeasure of the boss if they did not sign, hence the name goes on under pres sure, and the miner who values his position is really not to blame, for his bread and butter is at stake to a certain extent. Why, we are informed that even the ascertaining the preference of the miners of Ohio in this appointment, let him
